Could anyone help me out please? I have a class where one of the first assignments is a Quimica Whitten Octava Edicion english language activity. I would like to make a one page activity that simulates the book coming apart in front of the students. This would be a group project where the students would need to have active participation. I would need them to make a cover (maybe a drawing) and a side panel (maybe a drawing) for the book. I do not have a copy of the book and I do not want to pay for a copy of the book to print our own. I am not willing to purchase over $10 for the book and the students would not have that kind of money. I also will not purchase a software program. What is the easiest way to get this type of graphic to students through their word processer to print in larger size paper? I will attach a couple of images of a drawing that I want the students to work with. A: I would have each of the students fill out a sheet of paper similar to the one you gave: in blue print, 5-6 lines in width, the top half of which would be the cover and the bottom half of which would be the side panels of the book. I would have them glue down the top half of the sheet, making sure that some of the pages would protrude through the top of the cover and that the pages that protruded through the cover would be visible but their order would be different than the ones printed on the bottom half of the sheet. I would then have them glue the sheets together so that the top half of the cover on one sheet is flush with the bottom half of the other sheet. I would then have them glue the two sides on, making sure the order of pages they are sticking down is consistent. I think that would be a fun start and could be modified as the students are seeing examples of materials and processes. Q: Want to set data in table using jquery I am trying to fill my table This is my code, Name quimica general whitten 8va edicion pdf What other alternatives are there besides the above books? A: Copia de La Recherche Scientifique is not as easily available as the other two titles but it's definitely worth having since it's just like a big scientific journal. Copias de la Recherche Scientifique (Bibliographie de Nouvelles Publications) - SUPEF : Est nouvelle version de l'ancien magazine Copies de la Recherche Scientifique. Creation / Publication : Supélec - Département de la Recherche Scientifique - École Normale Supérieure - CNRS - University Pierre & Marie Curie - Paris 6 This one is not as popular as the others (nobody but me used it when I was in college) but has very nice articles in English and French. La Recherche (Printemps 1999 / Novembre 2000) - SUPÉLEC : Environ 300 pages mensuelles. Creation / Publication : Supélec - Département de la Recherche Scientifique - École Normale Supérieure - CNRS - University Pierre & Marie Curie - Paris 6 Moderne's "Quimica" (the old "Chemie") Quimica (SupÃ¨lec, 1997 - 2001) - Creation / Publication : SupÃ¨lec - DÃ©partement de la Recherche Scientifique - École Normale SupÃ¨rieure - CNRS - University Pierre & Marie Curie - Paris 6 A: American Chemical Society publishes a journal, American Chemical Society Chemical Abstracts (no English articles unfortunately), which has plenty of chemistry related articles. Here are two in particular: An Abstracts of Chemical Literature, edited by J.J. Ball, S. Gaffney, G.J. Klaassen and E.S. Levy, published by The American Chemical Society (ACS) Alcohols of Organic Compounds, edited by N.J. Robertson, published by The American Chemical Society Unfortunately, it's subscription-only and has a rather dated look to it. When I was younger I was the biggest believer in karma. As I grew up I found myself in positions of power (like teaching school
