The expression of CTL responses directed against a class I-restricted, H-2Kd-restricted epitope of E1A proteins from Ad5 and SV40 was studied in vitro. The class I-restricted SV40-specific CTL, which had been generated in vitro, were shown to lyse target cells expressing the E1A protein from SV40 (E1A/SV40). A peptide corresponding to a sequence in the E1A protein known to bind to H-2Kd was used as a probe to determine the H-2Kd restriction for the E1A protein from SV40 and Ad5. CTL generated against the SV40-specific epitope, SV40E1A, recognized E1A from SV40 (E1A/SV40) and the Ad5-specific epitope, Ad5E1A, but not E1A from Ad5 (E1A/Ad5) or the closely related E1A proteins from Simian Virus 40 (SV40E1A) or Rous Sarcoma Virus (RSV-E1A). These data suggest that the CTL response to the SV40-specific epitope is expressed spontaneously in vitro. Further, this spontaneous expression is H-2Kd restricted.jade-base- jade-base-ttf $ 22.99 Designed by the brand Keitaro Fujishima (known as the 'God of Japanese Calligraphy'), Jado Japanese Letter Writing
