TOSHIBA RELAYS TOUCH PRO INSTANT LOADING TOSHIBA Relays is proud to announce the new "Instant Loading" feature of their portable touch screen iMAC products. This new feature allows the iMAC to instantly start loading games even while the device is in standby mode. Users can set this feature to automatically load a game into memory upon plugging into a power source such as a computer. It does this by automatically changing the screen to reflect the loading of a game. This allows the iMAC to avoid the "stutter" problem by loading a game immediately when a user plugs into a power source. Users can also configure the duration between each time the screen goes blank during the process of loading a game. This setting varies from 30 to 60 seconds. The "Instant Loading" feature also provides a new power saving feature for portable iMACs. When the screen is in "sleep" mode it can power down the screen quickly and save battery life. By default the power down feature disables touch screen input but users can configure it to be disabled or enabled. The "Instant Loading" and power down features are configurable in the device's "Options" menu.
