(credit: CBS) The Fox family home in Springfield Township, New Jersey, pictured in September 2010. (credit: CBS) NEW YORK (CBSNewYork) — The New York Post reported Thursday that a woman said she was attacked while babysitting a 2-year-old boy by someone who is accused of doing unspeakable acts to the child. Television station WCBS reported that the alleged incident took place in a New Jersey suburb. The alleged attacker is being charged with kidnapping and sexual abuse. New Jersey prosecutors told WCBS that the suspect tried to wash his face and cleaned up blood, before fleeing the home and heading to a nearby medical facility. WCBS reported that the alleged suspect is an adult, not the child's father. In an interview with the station, the alleged victim said the attack began when she put the boy down for a nap. "When I put him down for a nap, he made this snorting sound," she said. "The only thing I can think of, I guess he must have swallowed something." The woman said she saw what she thought was a string tied around the boy's neck. When she went to pick him up, she said, she found the boy to be unresponsive, according to WCBS. The Post reported that a next-door neighbor called police, who arrived to find the toddler's neck tightly bound with duct tape. "There were two of them with duct tape and he was crying," the neighbor told the Post. "They were down at the bottom of the stairs." The boy was taken to a hospital and was believed to have been sexually assaulted, WCBS reported. A doctor testified at the boy's detention hearing that he had been found to have a fractured clavicle, a broken rib, a badly bruised neck, and that the child "clearly had been sexually assaulted." Authorities arrested the mother and father at the family's home. "We were finally able to confirm that this did take place and the child was

35 mm Big Backyard Toys Children are born with imagination and imagination counts. Play with your kid and you will realize how interesting and unique childhood can be with the first toys which resemble the real things. Who is a real Big Backyard Toys? Imagine a child who has really big backyard and has plenty toys of every size and shape to play with. Now come to reality and give him some of the toys inspired by Big Backyard Toys, which he never had probably. Children will think; where do I play with such big toys? How did the person who had such toys dealt with my toys? Where is my big toy? My toys are obviously the biggest in the world and I will be able to never play with them. Imagine a child who thinks that now his big toy can play with his huge toys? There is a limit to the number of toys he can play with. He can never play with his big toy more than others. Other toys come and play with him and get to enjoy the same toy together. But, this big toy exists in a solitary corner of the child's backyard. He can't play with it with other toys which he has not found. He imagines the best of his toys. He also thinks he will be less thrilled with his toy without others. The moment the child comes back home from another trick-or-treat, his mind will be full of thoughts of who he will buy with the money which he will receive from this activity. He has a larger limit than regular toys as with him, there is a risk of nothing happening. Will he come back with a bag full of gifts or toys? So, is he now going to worry about his day or not? Big Backyard Toys he gets to enjoy his time with big toys and also gets a sense of belonging to a group of toys which looks big. It will make him happy as he can play with all the toys together and will take him through the simple and the difficult things right. 35 mm Big Backyard Toys Toy Building Ideas As a toy big enough to pose in various positions, our 75 mm Big Backyard Toys will be suitable as the focal point of your backyard. The Dinosaurs Are Here Key Features Physics-based dinosaur game Huge map with lots of secrets and achievements Survival & hunting game mechanics Advanced AIs with perception systems that are able to hear, see and predict On April 12, 2009, a report leaked claiming that the U.S. had 5 prototypes of an unmanned combat drone called the Predator. The report says that the prototype is equipped with a bomb and that the bomb can be programed to explode in any area that is deemed hostile, even if the drone has left that area. The drone is known for its ability to detect the presence of humans at long distances. The drone is equipped with a small infrared camera, an infrared laser and a thermal imaging camera, thus allowing it to track its targets. On April 12, 2009, when the report was announced the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency released a statement saying that they were not aware of the existence of such a drone, the only prototypes that exist are small and advanced test models. The U.S. Department of Defense has asked for a temporary suspension of the Air Force's Predator program until it finds an alternative solution to the spy drone. On March 3, 2011, the U.S. Government initiated an investigation on the use of the drone on U.S. soil. The investigation ended in June 2011 with the conclusion that there was no evidence of wrongdoing. A report from Popular Mechanics claims that the technology is used by the army as a surveillance tool. The report adds that the technology is widely used by the Army and the National Guard, mainly in Iraq, Afghanistan, and Pakistan. The Predator is equipped with a small field of view turret and with a two-way radio. U.S
