You are a stalwart defender of humanity, repelling the rampaging menace of the Monster Clans from a far-flung corner of the world. With a strict adherence to the code of ethics, you single-handedly chase down the monsters and send them back to their own planet. If you really want to earn some extra cash, you can always take on bounty hunting jobs, and cleanse your world of evil by killing the monsters for whoever's paying you. * The story takes place in the far-flung province of Astransia, a relatively peaceful corner of civilization. But when the start-up factory in your town gets some unwelcome visitors, things will get grim. * Encounters with other characters are handled with a Combat Zero turn-based system, with encounters taking place in random locations around town. The monsters' strategy will vary based on your actions, and sometimes you'll find yourself having to use stealth and other tactical considerations to complete your quest. * Combat is focused around the weapon type and the wielder, so by using Stealth, you'll force the monster to attack you instead of moving into range for a melee attack. Running away will cause monsters to chase you, but they can be lured back with grenades, so don't be surprised if you find yourself leading a mob of monsters on a nice long chase. Key Features • Tactical RPG combat We've updated the structure of the combat system to feature customizable weapons, with further upgrades available as you improve your character and equip them. Make sure you're well prepared for the battle at hand – move tactically and snipe the enemy with ranged weapons to pin them down so they can't get into melee range. • Monster hunting You're the last line of defence against creatures that threaten the peace of the peaceful province of Astransia. With a determined and vigilant disposition, you'll help stave off the menace of the monstrous incursions. • Sidequests The world of Lethal RPG is brimming with interesting quests to accomplish, but don't lose track of those that will give you a boost to your stats and skill tree. You'll want to make sure you level up before you hit 60. • Monster design Explore the eclectic world of Astransia with new monsters to find and level up. If you're feeling particularly adventurous, explore the

Gleaner Heights is an addictive, dark sim game. Set in a 1920s era communist village, where you must harvest as much wheat as possible while collecting the skulls of the undead. You are Grace, a young farm girl struggling to live and make a name for yourself, outside of the community and without the support of your parents. You find yourself orphaned and alone, left to try and rebuild your life with the minimum support of the town. A thick fog shrouds the village, causing the residents to begin dying of starvation. You have the opportunity to help the town, but only by killing the souls of the dead, turning them into wheat for sale to the highest bidder. You encounter a series of challenges as you ascend the ranks of the leader, who rewards you by raising your rank and capacity to feed the town. The game's story is done with an RPG treatment, and later on, you can customise your playing experience with your own separate storyline. The title aims for a unique gameplay experience, placing players in the mindset of a lonely young girl in a farming community, forced to get by by killing the undead. The Threefold Conspiracy AP 4: The Hollow Cabal. The adventure begins in the floating city of Roselight in the clouds of the gas giant Liavara. The heroes are looking for answers and information regarding a celestial body called Skyfall. The gazetteer details Roselight and the Upwell station and discusses its super heroes. Two alien races inhabit Roselight, one of them the mind-controlling Karell, and the other the fungal Dycepskians. The heroes, upon discovering that the Karell have infiltrated the Stewards and the Whispering Caves, set out on a quest to protect the citizens of Roselight from the Karell! The heroes learn that Skyfall is the home of the Dycepskian race and the source of all their power, while the Karell, who are the dominate influence in Roselight, don't want the power of Dycepskian magic on the public! In the upcoming adventure, the heroes begin their search for the Dycepskians, their world's sole defense against the Karell. Who are the Dycepskians, what is the city of Roselight, and what do they have to do with Skyfall? This product is not a PDF or accessible outside of Fantasy Grounds. 13 out of 19 Data Pics BINGHAMTON — A series of 14 photographs of the comet 67P/Churyumov-Gerasimenko are now available online and can be viewed here. The images were captured by the Rosetta spacecraft's lander Philae as the comet approached the surface of the Earth-moon system, making it the first spacecraft to land on a comet. The images were captured during an extremely faint phase of the comet, which means they were made under less than ideal conditions. Carl Agee, assistant director of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in California, released the pictures, giving NASA an opportunity to showcase the comet while it was still in relatively good shape and before it melted due to the intense sublimation of volatiles like water and carbon dioxide. "The fact that we saw the lander lying on the comet's surface is still a great accomplishment as Philae is not only the first spacecraft to successfully land on a comet but also the first European mission to do so and the first spacecraft to land on any comet," he said. "The images are the first for a mission and we look forward to studying their context and impact." Ray Arvidson, planetary geologist at Washington University in St. Louis, said that in one shot the lander and Philae are imaged "like a postage stamp." "On a scale of 1 to 10, it's a 10," he said, adding that in this case the comet was only a 4 on the Arvidson scale. The data being sent back from Rosetta will also include images of the comet's surface, as captured by the GRAIL mission back in 2011 (see image below), as well as the high-speed imaging data sent by the WISDOM spacecraft back in 2009. One of the mission's major goals is to investigate the comet in more detail as it moves closer to the sun and to study it for a year. "If you take a lot of images over the course of the day, we are going to be able to really show the comet changing color, rotations, and what not," said Arvidson. "You'll be able to see what happens to the nucleus of the comet when it goes from being really cold at the start of the mission to really warm at the end." The images from the mission were taken by Philae's CIVA camera. At the moment, the
