If you like watching movies online, here's..Former Vice President Joe Biden will likely enter the Democratic presidential race in a commanding position in the next several weeks, but his campaign has had no shortage of missed opportunities to secure sizable victories so far. Biden's team is hoping that the former vice president will turn the page on the contests that he lost, the ones that still elude him and those that he has yet to even begin. At this point in the 2020 campaign, the race for the Democratic nomination has been anything but a straight shot to the nomination. Biden, now at least according to most national polls in the double digits, has the support of around 20% of Democratic voters, but about half that many voters remain uncommitted. The current leaders of the contest -- Vermont Sen. Bernie Sanders and Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren -- have historically high favorability ratings, but the campaigns for both remain short on the kind of fundraising and
