The all-new Dynamic Player Momentum that helps players respond more naturally to the unpredictable and dynamic elements of the game. Dynamic Player Momentum algorithms track players' accelerations and velocities as you play, creating a more authentic ball-based feel. It responds by sending better pitches and kickoffs, and helps to stop players from being overpowered. Agent.exe – a first for football. Full control over player attributes including acceleration, endurance and agility. Send new players to training, including a pre-training simulation before they play. Transform video clips, refiteach, and even play snaps with your mates. Dynamic marking system – see if an aerial duel, a tackle or a clean-sheet are more likely to result in a goal. The new AI will use this information to help the player make decisions about where to pressurize the ball and where to mark the ball carrier. Victory Editor – Unlimited creative control over player formations, tactics, and lineups. Create unique strategies, and share them with others using FIFA Mobile. Infinite game modes – unlimited play and progression across different game modes and leagues. Jump to our FIFA 22 live stream review on Youtube now. One of the main focuses of this year's FIFA is the introduction of new and varied gameplay features which attempt to change the style of football. One of the largest features being introduced in FIFA 22 is the ability to use a player's accelerations. With FIFA 22, players will be able to make their own decisions about when to pressurize the ball, come from deep and make decisions about whether or not to play keep ball. The team pressing will also react more naturally and intelligently to when a player is speeding off towards their own goal and could force a shot on goal, for example. In FIFA 22, your character will begin the game in training, simulating the conditions found in the game before taking to the pitch to play a match. You will be able to take your character to a training session to teach your player the mechanics of the game, before they enter into the real game against a familiar foe. The training simulation is essentially the same as the in game training, but the intensity of play is reduced. However, this will allow a player to decide whether or not they want to go for a pre-match warm up before they take to the pitch. The AI has also been overhauled in FIFA 22
