This beautiful and colorful game is designed to be relaxing and relaxing for you, your mind and your body. This game will help you to sleep better and reduce the time you have to deal with annoying problems like lack of sleep, insomnia, sleep deprivation, stress, tension and anxiety. If you have trouble falling asleep or getting back to sleep in the night, this is the best game for you! You will be in charge of a small blue pillow who will go through different worlds (future, present and past). Your task is to go through all worlds and help people to get a better sleep and to enjoy this special place called Earth. Your small character can jump and will be able to fly in each level by a lot of lifts, but in some levels you will be in water. If you fall into the water the game will switch to the next level but will keep your new skin in his wardrobe so you can take your skins back to your room. Each level you can find different enemies you will have to do them away from their egg and try to collect their skin in your room. You can collect the skins by using special eggs only when their are pressed you have to shoot them with your thumb in order to collect them. Besides collecting eggs skins you can also collect feathers and you will have to solve puzzles (I.e. use light on a dark place or open a switch) There are different events and special events you will have to help people and try to avoid the monsters trying to hurt you. Because sometimes it will be very difficult to do things and there will be lots of impossible puzzles because the game will change from level to level. You will find a lot of ladders, lifts and buttons. And there are lots of surprises waiting for you. Some special events will be active only by some time and some of them are permanent. Sometimes the game will change into a special mode for example: 1. Story mode (levels will be longer and there will be easter eggs and secret places) 2. Scary mode (you will hear everything, there will be more monsters, puzzles and buttons to open) 3. Peace mode (the game will be even more relaxing this mode will have no time so you will not have to do certain things or meet enemies, just relax and enjoy your time) Some levels will be long and there will be lots of puzzles You can exit a level to go back to your room (but remember that in some

If you like games that are addictive, you'll probably like this game. Full disclosure: I used to work for EA. Full disclosure number two: I now run my own small firm, independent from EA. Early Access Play a variety of 50 card games, including Poker, Go, Rummy and others 2.5/5 Indie Game Review A complex, open-ended card game with strong mobile style visuals and a multiplayer feature that feels like a social phenomenon 1.5/5 Pocket Tactics An interesting enough product, but there are a number of issues that limit its enjoyment. 3/5 Pocket Tactics A competent design with a few issues that would need to be addressed to become a truly great game. 3/5 Pocket Tactics Almost makes it over the top. A unique game that looks really good on a mobile screen. A design with just enough depth and fluff to be a smart new take on card games. A fantastic take on multiplayer. Almost raises the bar. If you can get your friends to play it, you're onto a winner. AppSpy AA surprising game that caters to everybody, from beginners to veterans 3/5 Pocket Tactics Its a great party game, but theres just not a lot of meat on its bones. Check out my monthly podcast reviews if you want more meat. Full disclosure: I used to work for EA. Full disclosure number two: I now run my own small firm, independent from EA.

You see their names, the trailers, the media, you know they're successful. It's harder to recognize those that didn't make it. I think we can make a good argument that Hidden in Plain Site is that game. Hidden in Plain Site is the story of a man going on a murder spree. Think back to your 8th grade English classes, how you spent a little

. " We looped around the truck three times and zipped through the hole. The truck was a sterile affair. There was a kitchenette, twin beds, a desk, and a dark blue plastic tank in the corner. Each tank held about thirty gallons of water. The entire truck was illuminated by a light that looked like it came from a green sun. The men sat all around, looking hungover and unhealthy. They looked like workingmen who had walked too far and not eaten. All of them were covered with muck and dirt. "Okay, grab that nigger-lover." "Who is he?" I asked. I hadn't seen a soul either. "Hard to say. He fits the description." "Hey, what's that?" One of the men had picked up something, a small book off the floor of the truck. "What is it, Jesse?" "It's a Bible. Looks like it's been chewed on a little, but it's definitely the Bible. We still got most of it. We need to call the station. This is so fucked, so fucked." "Jesse, we just have to find Blondie first. If we find him, we'll know what to do with the truck." Something caught my eye. A window above the bench seat was broken. I walked over and examined the broken glass. Inside there was the text of a new Bible, clearly written on the cardboard box that had been set in the window to keep it from shattering. The language was the scholarly kind used by the type of women who come to the Bible study groups I attended. The notes were scuffed but were not ruffled. The writing was in a strong feminine hand. The phrases were exact expressions, the sentences slightly baffled from repeated paraphrase. One side of the page was filled with note-taking: "When He weaned you he put you to the test. He asked of you to stay hungry. For you to suffer from want." Then she underlined the verse, the words lifted from the page and read aloud. "He just asked of you to stay hungry and to suffer from want to see how you may respond to truth. That was the test your Lord put upon you. To see if you would hunger and suffer." I knelt down and looked at the front page. It was a page with a huge picture of the Garden of Eden, a large
