The aim of this study is to evaluate the long-term clinical outcomes, predictive factors and complications of percutaneous metal stent (MS) placement for benign biliary strictures. Between June 2011 and May 2017, a total of 17 patients with benign biliary strictures were treated with percutaneous MS placement in our institution. The patients' clinical outcomes and adverse events were retrospectively analysed. The median follow-up period was 25 months (range: 1-72). Amongst these complications, stent dysfunction caused by stent fractures was the most common cause (n = 2, 14%). In a multivariate analysis, concurrent lesions in the same segment and tumor diameter were identified as independent predictive factors for stent dysfunction. The overall survival rate after MS was 90.5% at 1 year and 88.8% at 3 years. Percutaneous MS placement is a safe and effective therapy for patients with benign bil
