News Birdcage Formation with Easel Pattern and Basin Tigers Shape the Landscape The dramatic shape of the landscape is, in part, the work of tigers, writes Pat Bulcock for Smithsonian. Between 2003 and 2008, our satellite tracking data has shown that the Pabong Tigers-National Park in India-have spent up to 15 hours a day active. These contacts helped give us a better idea of their movement patterns within their 1,945,000-acre home territory; turned a blind eye to see their predation patterns across the landscape; and spotted new animal behavior-such as the elephants' abandonment of an adult tigress while she suckled two cubs (see video below). What was perhaps most striking about our data was that the amount of time spent active varied; aside from the daytime sleep period, tigers seem to spend more time moving around while active during rain-dominated periods of the year. We've taken advantage of this large behavioral dataset, to build the Landscape of Indian Tiger. Our composite satellite imagery also contains satellite imagery from 1974, 2005 and 2007. Alin Aluie, as Director of the Tiger Corridor for the Western Ghats, region provided a tiger
