Blighted property is on the market for more than half a million dollars. SALT LAKE CITY — The state has taken legal ownership of a former South Salt Lake mall but the property is now in foreclosure. It's been a year since this property, and almost more, was in the South Salt Lake Mall's untimely demise. Construction workers have been using blowtorches, jackhammers and pitchforks to remove asbestos and help remove the 120,000 square feet of underground cement and rock that once housed hundreds of thousands of dollars in store inventory. Vendors all walked away from the property, and after the mall's opening, the ice rink never used the facility. The property has also been raided by the FBI to figure out who was the true owner and how they stayed that way for so long. Bid No. 1 for a shopping center in South Salt Lake is $570,000, down from $620,000 in March when the property was put up for sale. It's already sold to a woman in Boise, Idaho who said she plans to redevelop it. This is the most expensive mall, with the largest retail space in South Salt Lake, that has ever sold this quickly. Our property is now free and clear. It's going to go to auction in just a few weeks. The property is being foreclosed on by the state and is now in the state's name. State officials said they want to sell the property, which has been deemed to be uneconomical for development because of its underground nature. They hope to have the property ready for public bids within two weeks. Until then, the state will continue to own the property. "We plan to auction the property as quickly as possible after the offer period and escrow is closed," said Ryan McConkie, the real estate broker who is listing the property. A

LexmarkÂ .There is a need for improved filter protection and particularly for a filter that is easy and relatively inexpensive to manufacture and assemble but which is effective against a broad spectrum of harmful and dirty and polluting airborne material. To protect against early damage during transport in a package a transfer film may be applied to the filter, but such films are troublesome and can easily be removed. Similarly, such a film can be applied to the filter from a solution as is disclosed in German patent application No. 2,456,616, but the filter does not stay clean and loses filtering efficiency within a few hours after being installed./* * Copyright (c) 2016, 2018, Oracle and/or its affiliates. Technical Field The present disclosure generally relates to hardware security, and more particularly, to a method and device for authenticating hardware. 2. Description of Related Art While there are techniques for authenticating software, there are no effective techniques for authenticating hardware. Hardware authentication is a promising technology for hardware security. Generally speaking, a personal identification number (PIN) is set to the hardware, and the hardware provides the PIN to a program. The program then uses the PIN to authenticate the hardware. However, a key logger Trojan (for example, Pinlib) may be placed in the program, and the Trojan may capture the PIN and save the PIN to a memory space of the program when the hardware is powered on. In this case, a hacker could have obtained a PIN, and therefore, the hardware is no longer secured.Why Family Facilitators Matter to Asian Families with Newborns. The project's purpose was to describe characteristics of family facilitators for Asian families with newborns. This descriptive study provides research that sheds light on the unique challenges Asian families with newborns face. The information can be used by providers as they support new parents during the birth of their infant. The research was completed using a qualitative descriptive design. The study population was recruited from the community, which included family members that were identified as having a role in supporting the family during the transition to parenthood. The data were collected via in-depth, one-on-one interviews, which were audio recorded and transcribed verbatim. The authors used inductive coding to generate themes and patterns and developed a codebook based on those themes and patterns. Three major themes were identified: 1) When well-intended "goodness" can be alienating; 2) Inconvenient in-laws do not always have the "quick fix"; and 3) Cultural differences create care challenges. The findings are important for health care providers who are working with new Asian families, especially those who may be caring for a family member as well as the
