In the Lands Between, an evil shadow has been spreading on the continent, and the world of Elden has been changing into a dark land. In order to change this world, the heroic arms of the Elden Ring Activation Code are on their way to the place where the shadow can be defeated. The powerful weapons and armor that the players' characters fight with are items that have disappeared from the lands beyond the crystal walls. It is up to the player's characters to search for those items, and to use them to defeat the enemy.

Vespa conoides Vespa conoides is a small vespoid wasp from the family Vespidae. It is native to the Palearctic, and has become an invasive species in North America. There it has changed its name, and became its own species, Vespula conoides. It is now known to parasitise honey bees. Like most other wasps the females are winged. Adult females are about 4–8 mm in length, and are yellow and black in colour. This species of wasp flies in summer and autumn, and the larger males sometimes form big aggregations. In the Eastern parts of the Nearctic Region hibernation takes place during the winter months. The larvae live in the ground. Unlike most wasps in the Vespa genus, this species does not bite or sting. This wasp can be host to chytridiomycosis; however this has not been scientifically confirmed. The disease is known to affect mostly amphibian, reptile, and bird species. As when the disease is present, most of the infected individuals wither and die and their body fluids become infected with specific fungus chytrid. The American Vespa conoides have been established to have developed chytridiomycosis. The pesticide Sevin is known to kill the disease, but costs should be considered. Studies also show that the European Vespa conoides does not acquire chytridiomycosis. The composition of the nest found of the European Vespa conoides resembles that of the American species; however, the American one's nests have a smaller number of females. When mounting an attack, the vespa is said to vibrate, or "drum", the host. This begins as a faint vibration on the ground, but becomes more pronounced and audible. The host reacts with increased movement, and the stinging. The host may go limp in this time. During this attack the animal is highly mobile, and may sting individuals near and far. Vespa

Simon Munnery's new book, The Journey: How to walk the long roads of life, and make the most of them, falls squarely within that tradition. The book traces Munnery's search for a place and community, moving back and forth across the world and time, as he explores his roots in Scotland, Ireland and finally Australia. In his travels, Munnery is always on the search. An orphan who was growing up in an orphanage, he travels to Australia, where he is adopted by Robert and Ileen Munnery, for whom he forms a bond that is long-lasting. He goes to university in Edinburgh and, after a time of travelling, returns to Ireland to work as a journalist. Eventually he marries and settles in Australia with his family. It is
