When information such as music, images, or the like recorded on an information recording medium is reproduced from the information recording medium, the user may want to know whether there is additional information, i.e., whether there is any information not stored on the medium. To this end, a medium having a white or black letter indicating the fact that additional information is recorded on a pre-recorded area is generally used. Such medium is hereinafter referred to as a medium having an "indicating area". The letter is recorded in the indicating area and is distinct from the recording of ordinary data on a data area. A method for recording the letter on the medium in a variety of ways has been proposed. For example, it has been proposed to divide an indicating area formed in a partial area of the medium into two or three recording areas to record two or three kinds of letters having the same design in these recording areas and the letters can be read by sensing the optical reflectance of the indicating area. However, when information is recorded in a pre-recorded area in many information recording mediums including DVD-R and CD-RW, this area is actually used for the recording of the above-described indicating area. Since the information recording mediums are generally obtained by unifying the pre-recorded area and the indicating area, data areas formed in the unifying area can be partially used for recording additional information. Thus, the usable area of the medium has been reduced by the size of the pre-recorded area. In order to increase the usable

The report will also be used to make a decision on whether or not to implement the new session, with a focus on student feedback on the session. This option is the default one. What should be considered in choosing a new session? Take advantage of the version control in Moodle If you want to have more control on how students experience the course or change the course, then this is a very good option to take. If you want to make sure that the course gets the most appropriate versioning in Moodle, then this is the only option you need. If you want to be able to easily change the course for students, then this is a very good option to take. This option is highly recommended for those who want to run a few course versions in Moodle. If you want to be able to easily add or modify courses for students, then this is a very good option to take. It is highly recommended for those who like to run a large number of courses and are happy with a large number of versions and modifications. Design your own course and set up Moodle for that: This option is highly recommended for those who want to design their own courses in Moodle. This is the most exciting and at the same time the most laborious option.
