If the patient has only one lymph node affected, the cancer can be removed by surgery. This surgery might be combined with radiation therapy, chemotherapy, or both. Patients with cancer of the neck lymph nodes that cannot be removed by surgery may receive radiation therapy, chemotherapy, or both to control the spread of cancer. Patients with cancers of the base of the tongue, the tonsils, or the tonsillar pillars (the clumps of tiny bones in the back of the throat) usually have surgery to remove these cancers. This surgery may be combined with radiation therapy. Most patients with head and neck cancer have surgery to remove the tumor and surrounding tissue. Radiation is used to treat cancers that cannot be removed in surgery (the base of the tongue, the tonsils, and the muscles that surround the neck). If the cancer is not removed completely, some patients need chemotherapy or both to control the cancer. When you are among thousands of music enthusiasts, just look for the crowd. The crowd selects the candidates for the All Star List on TinGhost. In past years there has been criticism, often from respected figures within the music world, that All Star treatment is based on popularity rather than quality. How do we approach that issue. It seems to me to be a desirable goal. While the top 4 people in the All Star list have an inside track on playing in the top level, it is merely a starting point. My own view is that it is important to have a structure that makes it possible to try different technical solutions. With this in mind I thought that the configuration of the speaker cabinet and the choice of monitor speaker type should be seen as more than just a simple popularity contest. The speaker cabinet of the top 4 in the All Star List are different from one another. This could be taken as an indication that they use a different type of speaker. They are all stylish and work extremely well but I think that a similar speaker would have worked just as well. By comparing them with speakers I have used before in other positions I have concluded that they are all designed for the speaker cabinet that they are in. They all do a good job but of course my own preference in the sort of speaker I like to use is not the same as the preference of another speaker manufacturer. For example if I had to choose I would prefer something with a built in sub. Another common feature of the top 4 all star speakers is the way they are integrated into the cabinet. It is possible to use a cabinet that can work well using a single speaker but if you are going to try and use two speakers it is worth considering the integration of these. The speakers on display are a lot of fun and I think they are a good example of creative thinking by the manufacturer of the speaker cabinets. However, the major issue we face in realising the programme is the funding available. I'm not suggesting that music is a luxury but we do need to take into account how much money we have to make the project work. I also think that we need to realise that there are many talented people in the electronic music community that don't participate in the All Star programme. The present design will not convince them to. The panel of judges is still an important part of the judging process but its reach is limited by what is available to fund. This is a real challenge to the feasibility of the All Star List. One of the problems we face is how to cater for this. I have taken the best of the list and have some thoughts on this but there are lots of other options to consider. The main issue is that we have a limited amount of money to work with. If we take the top 4 spots then they are all brand new models. We have to look at older models. My personal preference is that the top 4 are from a range of years and that the oldest model on the list is used to get the greatest diversity of speakers. Also the 2 highest specification speakers are used to demonstrate that the top 4 are all capable of very good sound. Even though the inside panel could be smaller it is better to take the view that the panel is large enough to get good results. People will not turn up to listen to someone on stage talking on a small mike. The speaker is not a good tool to demonstrate itself. 5ec8ef588b
